Brown destroys the myth of a strong political leaders in both democracies and authoritarian states and says that these leaders - with some notable exceptions - do rather more harm than good. Dont let it fool you: the best political leaders are those who are modest, can listen to experts and unite groups with opposing views.

Worse, the myth of our extraordinary strength makes it difficult for us to see ourselves. Laini Mataka's celebrated poem "The Strong Black Woman Is Dead," begins: On August 15, 1999, at 11:55 p.m., while struggling with the reality of being a human instead of a myth, the strong black woman passed away.
